There once was a boy named Patrick,
He lived up in the attic,
He stole a pot of gold,
Because he was very bold,
And then he ran away in a panic.

By Ellen

There once was a leprechaun named Larry,
Who lived inside a Ferrari.
He took a pot of gold,
But he was a million years old.
And he found it very hard to carry.

By Cillian

There once was a boy named Joe,
Who always had somewhere to go,
He lived with his Mum,
And he liked to chew gum.
But he was always too busy to go slow.

By Mowafi

I found a pot of gold,
When I wasn't very old.
I like to follow rainbows
With my lucky shamrock bows.
Oh no! My gold is actually some mould.

By Aoibhinn

My name is Joe,
And I have a big toe.
I found lots of gold,
But I am very bold.

I'm always the one wearing a pink bow.

By Noah

There once was a leprechaun named Fred,
Who fell out of his bed.
He had a pot of gold,
But he was a thousand years old.
And now he has a sore head.

By Orlaith

There was a leprechaun named Patrick,
Who loved to hide in the attic.
He liked to lift Lamborghinis,
And wear striped bikinis,
But he was so very erratic!

By Avril

There was a leprechaun named Mike,
Who always got stuck in a pipe,
Even though he was young,
He still bit his tongue,
And he liked to fly a kite.

By Lily

There was a leprechaun with an amazing life,

Who lived with his very loving wife.

He needed a hook,

So he had a good look.

And he chopped potatoes with a knife.

By Patrick

There once was dog called Patrick,

One day he was sick.

He ate a green bean,

Because his favourite colour was green

And then he started to panic.

By Jamie

There was a leprechaun named Larry,

But he wanted to be called Gary.

Then he turned into a frog

And got lost in the bog.

But now you'll find him down in the quarry.

By Cora

There once was a lady named Jane,

Who went out in the St. Patrick's day rain.

She had a lovely dog,

Who turned into a frog,

And they both loved to go down the lane.

By Catherine

There once was a girl who had to pay a bill,

So she said to herself that I will,

But she doesn't have money,

Only a pet bunny,

And now she has to work at the mill.

By Sarah

There once was a leprechaun named Billy,

Who really was rather silly,

He found it hard to see,

So he found a tall tree,

And now he prefers the name Jilly

By Conor Mc C

There once was leprechaun named Larry,

Who liked to be called Garry.

He loved to steal gold,

As he was very bold.

He got caught and now works in the quarry.

By Willow

There once lived a snake,

Who liked to eat cake,

His name was Lidl,

And he loved to play the fiddle,

Now he's off to learn how to bake.

By Tom

There once was a leprechaun named Bob,

Who liked to eat corn on the cob.

He was very funny,

And had a pet bunny.

Can anyone please give him a job?

By James

There once was a leprechaun named Joe,

Who dropped a pot of gold on his toe.

He started to yell,

Then cried out for nurse Mel

And now he has crutches in tow.

By Katie Mc C

There once was a leprechaun called Jack

Who loved to jump on a sack.

He had a pet owl,

Who loved to use a towel.

Oh no! Poor Jack hurt his back.
